Councilmembers tangle over injection system

Underground

Among the facts of a Deep Well Injection System:

- There are about 300,000 injection underground wells nationwide.
- The system injects fluids, solids, sludge and gases thousands of feet below the surface of the earth into rock formations.
- Hazardous waste wells are located in 15 states.

ANP Staff Writer

An injection disposal well project is drawing safety concerns from various Romulus councilmembers.

Representatives from Bestway Recycling Inc. and Environmental Disposal Systems Inc. approached councilmembers Dec. 10, asking for their support on the project by way of passing a resolution in favor of the well.

"We're not asking for approval to put in the injection well," Bestway representative Robert Ryan said. "The Environmental Protection Agency and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources approve the project. We wish to have the city work with us during the operation. We're only asking the city to help monitor the project."

About 20 industrial waste disposal wells are already operating across the United States, according to R. Thomas Segall, assistant supervisor of wells and chief of the geological survey division for the State of Michigan.

"Disposal wells of any kind are given careful and thorough review," Segall said. "Prior to the embarkation of the preparation of a permit application, the applicant and/or his engineering and geological staff or consultants usually meet with our technical staff to be briefed on the elements of the required feasibility study and environmental impact/assessment statement."

"Of the 20 plus industrial waste disposal wells currently operating, we have had no instances of well failure or contamination during a period of approximately 21 years," Segall said.

Waste disposal wells are not the most desirable of operations, but they are necessary and can be operated safely with proper and timely inspection, according to Segall.

Councilman Russell Lambert had mixed feelings about the injection well.

"I think this is an excellent project, but I have two main concerns," Lambert said. "The two concerns are regulation and being an independent company like yourself disposing of this nature."

"My feelings are a well of this nature should be located in a more rural area."

Councilman William Wadsworth was also leery to offer support.

"If you go bankrupt, who's responsible?" Wadsworth said.

Bestway officials said the Environmental Protection Agency and Department of Natural Resources will be monitoring the entire project.

"We're not Ford or Dow Chemical, but we are the largest company dealing with waste," Ryan said. "We're currently hauling and disposing of hazardous wastes."

The injection well has something of a safety device which will turn the system off if even one ounce of pressure is lost, according to Bestway officials.

Students collect food for needy

Cory Elementary School students decided to join hands and make Christmas a little brighter for Romulus senior citizens.

Recently, the school staged a food drive and gathered more than 700 canned goods, according to Howard Miller, sixth-grade teacher and one of the sponsors.

"We wanted to have the students take part in their community," Miller said. "We picked the seniors because they are on a fixed income."

The sixth-grade class sponsored the project. Miller said colored bags were placed in each of the classrooms and a chart was kept on hand to cheer the students on to beat the goal last year of more than 600 canned goods.

"There were two classes that stood out and collected more than 200 cans," Miller said. "My class was one and the other class was the split second/third-graders from Bea Morgan's room. Those students also collected more than 200 canned goods."

All the students will be receiving an appreciation certificate from school officials, and a party will be staged Dec. 21 to thank all the students and staff for their efforts.

"We're also going to give the two classrooms first place certificates for collecting the most cans," Miller said.

Morgan said she inspired her students to help the seniors by studying a social studies weekly reader on former President Jimmy Carter.

"The weekly talked about President Carter helping people," Morgan said. "We decided to find a way to help others by having the food drive."

Principal Phyllis Adkins believes the food drive helped the students learn about the reason for the season.

"It's so important for children to know the reason for the season is to give and share," Adkins said. "We, as educators, have to teach them about that."

Besides the seniors, canned goods will also be given to the Goodfellows.

A 24-hour gas station/convenience store will soon be constructed in Romulus at the southeast corner of Huron River Drive and Northline.

Councilmembers approved a special use request by Michigan Petro Equipment Inc. of Dearborn to develop one-third acre of land for the gas station.

Councilman Noah Bergeron addressed one concern of the planning commission about the project.

"The concern was you didn't have enough parking. Are you still going to open a gas station and a store?" Bergeron said.

Contractor Hassan Houmani said the store wouldn't be part of the project for at least a year.

City engineers from Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment Inc. in Troy listed a few recommendations.

"The plans do not show a water service to the building," the engineers said. "City records indicate that there was previously a water service on the site which has since been cut off. If the water service is salvageable, perhaps it could be repaired and utilized. The developer should determine where the service is."

The engineers suggested Houmani investigate the possibility of an existing sewer lead to the site which could be utilized. If there isn't one, the engineers said Houmani would have to construct a new one.

"Surface drainage will apparently flow over the pavement to Northline and Huron River Drive," the engineers said. "Huron River Drive and Northline Road are major city streets and driveway approaches to them must conform to city standards."

The engineers recommended approval of the site plan if Houmani complied with the following suggestions:

• The builder furnish the Department of Public Works with the cost associated with the installation of the water, sanitary sewer, pavement and drainage or storm sewer lines. • Details of utility plans including the sanitary sewer connection, water service and fire hydrant, storm sewer, site grading, paving and soil erosion and sedimentation control be reviewed following submission of construction plans to the building department.

• No permits for water, sewer, storm or the driveway will be issued until all the recommendations are incorporated with the final development plan submitted to the city for approval.

The Romulus Fire Department suggested Houmani install limited sprinklers in storage areas at the gasoline station. Fire Marshal Charles Bradley also recommended Houmani remove fuel oil tanks still in the ground at the old gas station.

"If installing new tanks in the ground, be aware of all present day federal, state and local codes and permits," Bradley said.

Developer swings city approval

A Troy resident received the green light from Romulus councilmembers Dec. 10 to build a long-term parking lot, motel, golf driving range and a miniature golf course on Ecorse Road.

An exercise trail is also in the making.

"By next summer, we plan to start construction after the site plans are approved," developer Mohammad Malik said. "We hope to complete the project by the end of next year."

The motel will be two to three stories high with 64 units. Malik said the rooms will have a good view of the golf range.

"We're also going to have jogging and walking paths for residents to exercise," Malik said.

The total project will be spread across more than 26 acres. Representatives from the city engineering firm of Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment Inc. offered a few site plan tips for Malik and city officials.

"There is an existing water main in the north side of Ecorse Road which can be utilized to service the proposed development," the officials said. "The existing main must be tapped and a new water main extended into the site. This main will be considered public and will require a construction permit from the Michigan Department of Public Health."

Other recommendations included:

- An internal sprinkling system.
- The water mains must be shown on the plans.
- There is an existing sanit-

Friend, family remember resident

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

A long-time Romulus resident and businessman died Dec. 7, leaving behind many friends and family members with fond memories.

Leo D. Roach died in Irvine, Calif. He was 89 years old.

"All the memories were great," Leo's wife Evalyn said. "We did a lot of traveling when he retired. We were married in 1961."

Roach was born and raised in Romulus. His early education was obtained from Hall School. He later graduated from Wayne High School.

Roach attended Cleary College in Ypsilanti, Mich. After graduation he decided to teach for a year. In 1923 he directed his efforts toward banking and joined the Romulus State Bank as an assistant cashier.

While at the bank, Roach remained active with the Romulus schools by working on the school board for a number of years. He was also a member of the Rotary Club and the Romulus Improvement Association.

"I was always amazed how well he was liked by other people," said Roach's son Douglas, who is a colonel in the U.S. Air Force. "He had a certain charisma. People admired him."

In 1960 when the Romulus State Bank became Branch 40 of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, Roach served as vice president. He later retired from that position, Aug. 1, 1963.

During his retirement, Roach moved with his wife to California.

"His commitment to people was admirable," Douglas Roach said. "He was someone I could always talk to. He understood broader issues. We did a lot of fishing together. He never pushed any of us to be something. We all are in diverse fields."

Vira McGrane is a long-time friend of Roach. She worked for him at the bank.

"I started working for Mr. Roach in 1935 when I was only slightly out of high school," McGrane said. "I was completely inexperienced in business work. He was patient, kind and understanding."

School sold for $1

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

The Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency found a real bargain Dec. 10. It bought the Romulus Beverly Elementary School for $1 from the Romulus Community School District.

"There is one contingency," Community Relations Director Art McPharlin said. "That the agency must remain in the building."

By offering the school for $1, the school district has the right of first refusal in the event WCRESA decides to offer the facility for sale in the near future.

The right of first refusal also requires the Romulus Community School District to pay back to the WCRESA a proportionate portion of any long-term capital improvements made during the ownership of the agency to the Beverly School building.

The intentions of WCRESA are:

- To continue to use the facility as a Head Start Grantee program serving about 150 clients and their families, and to expand to include other services that will complement the long-range strategic plan of WCRESA.
- To provide for facility repairs through grant monies.
- To continue a relationship with the Wayne-Metropolitan Community Service Agency as long as space allocation is available and WCRESA programs are not impinged upon.

Former commissioner opens new chapter as judge

Wayne resident and former Wayne County Commissioner Milton Mack Jr. is now a judge on the Wayne County Probate Court.

County commission chambers were at capacity Tuesday evening as the investiture ceremony was called to order by Freddie G. Burton Jr., chief justice of the county Probate Court.

Friends, family and co-workers were on hand to wish Mack well, and to praise him for his work as a commissioner.

Jokes were passed back and forth about the turmoil on the commission in recent months, but ultimately Mack was the hero of the day.

"The crowd here present is testimony to the respect he commands from the community he serves," Burton said.

Also saying a few words were Commission Chairman Arthur Blackwell, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and Justice Patricia L. Boyle of the Michigan Supreme Court.

"Milt Mack is his own person," McNamara said. "He worked hard for the reorganization of the county."

Mack's involvement in the elimination of the county drain commissioner post and his work in the area of solid waste were praised as well.

Other local dignitaries present included: all members of the Wayne County Commission, District Court Judge Carolyn Archbold, District Court Judge Gail McKnight, Wayne City Councilmembers Robert Beeny and Donna McEachern, Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett, Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano, Westland City Council President Thomas Brown and State Rep. James Kosteva.

Justice Boyle administered the oath of office as Mack's son Adam held the Bible. Adam also participated in the robing ceremony with Mack's law firm colleagues George Petersmark and David Barbour.

In his remarks to the audience, Mack thanked his family and friends, introducing a string of sisters, cousins, brothers and aunts.

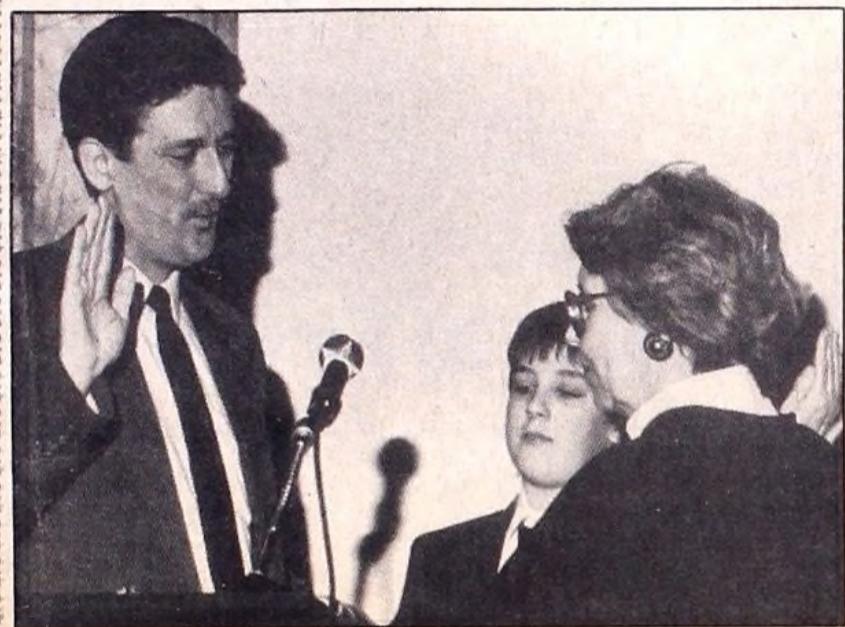

He also thanked Gov. James J. Blanchard for the appointment to the court.

Mack was the youngest individual ever to be elected to the Wayne City Council back in 1972.

EYE BANKS

We have all heard appeals for donations to "eye banks", but most people don't know what an eye bank is. Do you picture an institution with files of eyes of varying sizes and colors that can be checked out when needed?

Eye banks are the solution to the increasing demand for eye tissue needed for cornea transplantation. Transplantation of the cornea, the clear tissue in front of the eye, is a highly successful procedure for some corneal diseases, and more than 10,000 cases are performed annually in the United States.

Eye banks are generally located in larger medical centers around the country. They obtain donated tissue, prepare it for use, and screen the donor for any possible diseases which could be transmitted by exchanging the corneal tissue. The corneas can be stored for several days, and the eye bank responds to requests by area physicians who need the tissue for surgery. All eye banks are non-profit organizations.

In recent years a network of cooperating eye banks has been set up across the country, and it's possible to get a cornea on an emergency basis almost any time by calling a centralized number. Hopefully, you will never need this kind of service, but it's nice to know it exists.

Committee welcomes Romulus seniors

The Grosse Ile Boar Head Festival Committee celebrated a pageant Dec. 13.

The festival included a bass ensemble, hand bells, bag pipes, organ, Harpsicord, singers, dancers, a jester and a Christmas story.

More than 100 voices were in the choir.

'More than a neighbor'

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Long-time Romulus resident Elma Woodard was a real life Mrs. Santa Claus.

Woodard, 74, died Dec. 5, leaving behind a big family and lots of close friends. Woodard's grandchild, Rita Wimberley, 29, remembers how her grandmother constantly helped those less fortunate in the community.

"She was always very generous," Wimberley said. "She served dinners for the older people. She never considered herself an older person. She was a resident of Romulus for 17 years."

Woodard was a member of the Romulus Senior Citizen club, helped out at the voting polls each year and was involved with making sure neighborhood families had enough to eat in Romulus.

Earlie Coleman was Woodard's neighbor and remembers how her nephew preferred to eat at Woodard's house.

"When I wasn't home, she would always watch my house," Coleman said. "My nephew would never eat breakfast at home because he knew Earlie was making it for him."

"She was like a mother to me. I lost more than a neighbor. I lost a friend and a mother."

Wimberley said Woodard loved her family so much she prepared them for her death.

"She was so concerned about us," Wimberley said. "She told us she made her peace, and loved us very much. She didn't have any enemies. If she was upset with you, she always straightened it out right then."

Woodard was buried at Whitlock Memorial in Detroit Dec. 13. She is survived by daughters Geraldine Stevenson, 52, and Patricia Moore, 45, son Moses Frazier Jr., 38, 15 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Group kicks up heels

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

A jump rope demonstration team from St. Francis School in Ann Arbor kicked off the Hale Creek Jump Rope for Heart event last week.

The group, composed of eighth-graders from St. Francis called "Heart Beat," showed the elementary students how to kick up their heels and jump for a good cause, according to Sheila Stasak, gym teacher and coordinator of the event.

"The children were real fired up," Stasak said. "We sent permission slips home this week. Once the permission slips are returned, they can start collecting money."

"There is a two-fold purpose for the students to jump rope for the American Heart. The first is to collect money to help others and the second is it's great exercise for the students."

The actual jump rope event will take place from 9 a.m. to noon Jan. 18, 1991. Students will jump in groups of six. When one student of the team gets tired, he or she can pass the rope to another in the group.

"What we are suggesting is for most people to make a flat donation," Stasak said. "Whatever their pocketbooks can afford. The children will have a month to collect the money after they jump."

Besides great exercise and helping others, the American Heart Association is offering prize awards to the students who collect the most money. Prizes range from $10 to $500. Other prizes include a jump rope, frisbee, T-shirt, sweatshirt, floor piano, sports bag and a water bottle.

"The student who collects the most in the school will get a trophy," Stasak said. "The student who collects the most in each class gets a medal."

The school itself will get a prize if it reaches a certain donation amount.

"This is the fourth time we're doing this," Stasak said. "Our goal is to raise $5,000. The last time we did this, two years ago, we raised $4,200."

So far, 160 Hale Creek Elementary School students signed up for the event. Stasak said a number of parents already volunteered to lend a helping hand.

"We're going to have a practice before the actual event takes place," Stasak said. "This will give the students an idea how to work with a team."

Anyone wishing to make a direct donation to the American Heart Association can contact the school at 941-0536.

• All work in the road right-of-way must be approved by the county.

Planner Dennis J. Meagher, in a letter to the Romulus planning commission, praised the exercise track and trail project.

"The combination of long-term parking, golf and exercise track and fitness trail is one which will appeal to many people who are using this facility as an overnight stay prior to a flight the next day," Meagher said. "The exercise track and trail system are an excellent adjunct to the wetland and woodland preservation."

Councilmembers approved a special use permit for Malik to begin the project. Malik will still have to come before the council for site plan approval on the various projects.

gave me," Lambert said. "What's going to happen when we start mixing some of those things underground? I don't know in my heart if this is right for my city. How much will it cost to clean this up down the road?"

Romulus will receive a royalty interest from the project, which is 5 percent of the first $10 million in annual gross revenues or $500,000 plus 1 percent of annual gross revenues in excess of $10 million or $6,200.

Councilmembers approved the resolution in support of the injection well project by a 4-3 vote with councilmembers Gear, Lambert and Wadsworth opposing. The resolution included the city attorney recommendation the DNR and EPA will not be in conflict with local laws and regulations and not be pre-empted by state and federal law.

The envelope please.
And the winner is...Romulus Junior High School Band Director Richard Kruse.

Kruse was selected Dec. 18 as the 11th Annual Romulus Person of the Year by the Romulus Chamber of Commerce. A luncheon was provided at the Marriott Hotel.

"I had no idea," Kruse said. "I thought they were going to talk about designing a new band room."

Kruse has served Romulus schools for about 16 years. He continuously produces award-winning bands. His bands have received national recognition six times: 1980, 1983, 1986, 1987, 1988 and 1989.

Dennis Worsley, president of the Romulus Chamber of Commerce, said the decision was hard to make this year because of the number of quality people to choose from in the community.

"The hardest part was trying to keep the name of the winner a secret," Worsley said.

Kruse won state level competitions for his bands for all years except 1979. The bands have played at the Epcot Center in Florida, at the Capitol in Washington, D.C. and in New York.

On his own time, Kruse goes to various Romulus subdivisions during the summer to talk with children he feels are interested in band and encourages them to get started in the music program. He helps them find the instruments of their choice.

He was recently named in the 1990 Who's Who of America's Teachers. One of his former students, Tonya Tompkins, nominated Kruse.

Another former student, Glenn Hayes, has become the band director for the University of Whitewater in Wisconsin.

Kruse gives up a lot of his nights and weekends to fill requests for the bands to play at festivals, clubs and organizational events. He paid for a sign to be placed on Interstate-94 so band students could be recognized for their achievements and state wins.

For the past six years, Kruse has been in charge of the State Elementary Workshop. The Saturday workshops have included representatives from the instrument manufacturing, wholesale and retail publishing and instructional areas and have had an average attendance of more than 50 teachers.

Kruse was asked to serve the Wayne County Intermediate School District as a music con-

Ex-union leader to face sexual assault charges

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

An exam was staged for Richard Debs, former Ypsilanti United Auto Workers president, on Dec. 17 before 29th District Court Judge Carolyn A. Archbold on criminal sexual conduct charges.

Debs, 53, of Westland was arrested last month by Wayne police and charged with criminal sexual conduct. He was bound over Dec. 17 on four counts of breaking-and-entering with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct, criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, carrying a concealed weapon and impersonating a police officer.

The two victims involved in the incident, a 16-year-old Wayne resident and a 12-year-old Westland resident, testified before Archbold.

One charge of criminal sexual conduct in the third degree was dropped, according to Wayne Sgt. Mel Drews.

"The prosecutor was unable to provide enough information to prove criminal sexual conduct in the third degree," Drews said.

If Debs is found guilty of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree, he could get life in prison, according to Wayne Deputy Director John Colligan.

Debs is in the Wayne County Jail on a $50,000 cash bond. An arraignment on information is scheduled Dec. 28 in the Frank Murphy Hall of Justice in Detroit.

A co-defendant in the incident, Douglas Olechowski, 19, of Westland was also arrested as part of the Nov. 6 investigation. Olechowski has been charged with breaking-and-entering with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct and criminal sexual conduct in the first degree.

Olechowski is also being held in the Wayne County Jail on a $50,000 cash bond. He will join Debs for arraignment on information Dec. 28.

Debs was charged in November 1988 for trying to hire two Ypsilanti men — Jeffrey and Michael Hammond — to knock United Automotive Workers gaining chairman, out of running against him for the union presidency.

CITY OF ROMULUS CHAPTER 3, ARTICLE V, DIVISION 3

An Ordinance Of The City Of Romulus Providing That The Code Of Ordinances Chapter 3, Article V, Division 3 Be Amended By Adding A New Subsection To Be Numbered Section 2-421, An Ordinance Which Provides For Options To Purchase City Owned Property.

THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:

Section 1. SHORT TITLE: This ordinance shall be known and cited as the "City Owned Property Ordinance."

Section 2. The ordinance is amended by the addition of the following Subsection 2-421 to read as follows:

Option to Purchase:

A. All persons wishing to acquire property from the City at a future date, may apply, in a form prescribed by City Council, to the City Clerk for an option to purchase.

B. All requests for options must be accompanied by development plans sufficiently detailed to permit a meaningful evaluation of the proposal.

C. The City Council shall approve whether such an option should be granted in accordance with the Open Meetings Act, at a duly held regular City Council meeting.

D. Upon City Council's approval, the option recipient shall deposit with the City a non-refundable fee equal to 10% of the property's purchase price.

E. All options must be exercised according to the contract terms.

F. Upon exercise of an option, the holder thereof must conform to the standards announced by the Property Disposition Committee and approved by City Council.

G. The City shall not enter into a contract or sell any parcel of land to any person(s), firm or corporation that is delinquent on any City account or is in violation of any City code or ordinance.

Section 3. SEVERABILITY: Should any section, clause or provisions of this ordinance be declared to be invalid, the same shall not affect the validity of this ordinance as a whole or any part thereof, other than the part so declared to be invalid.

Section 4. EFFECTIVE DATE: This ordinance shall take immediate effect upon publication in the official newspaper.

Holidays create new challenges

By RANDY FRANK
ANP Staff Writer

During the holidays, businesses love to hear the sound of bells - the sound of cash register bells - that is.

Local retailers, however, are not always so jolly during the yule-tide season. Many businesses complain of theft at this time of year.

"Retailers have it tough at this time of year because they're flooded with customers," said Inspector Michael Frayer of the Westland Police Department.

Westland, however, has a unique way of protecting retail stores during the holidays.

During the past three years, the police department has set up a mobile home command post at Westland Shopping Center, the corner of Warren and Wayne roads, to effectively fight retail theft.

"We've cut down the number of thefts since we began using the mobile command post," Frayer said.

Two police cars patrol the 2 square mile area of retail stores, and then report to the unit.

The command post is open from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week through Dec. 25.

Frayer offers the following crime prevention tips to retailers:

- Make sure customers have receipts.
- Verify that merchandise is sold at the store.

In Canton Township, police officers patrol on foot and in cars at the strip malls during the holiday season.

Candidate withdraws name

Assistant Wayne County Executive Bryan L. Amann has withdrawn his name from consideration as the temporary replacement for the Wayne County Commission position left vacant by Milton Mack Jr.

In a formal letter to commission chairman Arthur Blackwell, Amann said he is not willing to agree to conditions set by some members of the commission during discussions, and therefore did not want to be considered as a candidate.

"In discussions with a number of commissioners, it has been made clear to me that the appointment is going to be conditioned upon opposing the county executive in the current budget fight," Amann writes.

"I find the Commission's recent actions on the budget appalling - I do not understand how commissioners can vote a 30 percent budget increase for themselves while cutting out funding for health care for the working poor. A county commissioner should be free to represent the needs of the voters of the district. Citizens of the 11th District deserve a commissioner with front-line experience, not back room debts," Amann writes.

The commission is expected to wait now and appoint a replacement after Jan. 1, 1991.

Commission throws county back in red

In what appears to be one of the most childish political games in recent years, the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved a budget designed to put them "in the pink", but the county "in the red".

It has been only in recent years that Wayne County has known what it is like to operate with a balanced budget. A $100 million deficit was wiped out thanks to a loan from the state.

Now, the commission has elected to adopt a budget which includes $1.2 million previously established as ineligible revenue, according to legal counsel for the county.

Because the funds cannot, in effect, be considered revenue for the 1991 budget, the adopted budget is not a balanced one.

If found to be not balanced, the county may owe even more money to the state in the form of a penalty payment.

If the budget were knocked out of whack due to debate over health insurance for the poor or programs to help alleviate death among infants, then such childish behavior and argument would be somewhat justified, and would be in keeping with the norms of politicians' behavior.

Those areas, however, which reaped from the budget battle were the commissioners themselves and the department of the county clerk.

Commissioners lined their pockets with a 30 percent increase. Their personal salaries went from $29,000 to $41,000 and their office budgets also climbed dramatically.

The county clerk's budget also jumped from $2.04 million to $2.62 million thanks to the generosity and short-mindedness of the Wayne County Commission.

Each year the county budget debate is horrendous with each sides striking blows to their opponent. In past years, however, the debate resembled more of a checks-and-balances systems and seemed in keeping with the spirit of the charter.

This year, the battle resembled a game of cat and mouse with each side clawing and scratching its way to the top. The commission, it would appear, came out on top, and the residents of Wayne County are left at the bottom of the heap with eyes squarely focused on the new debt which will carry them through the impending recession.

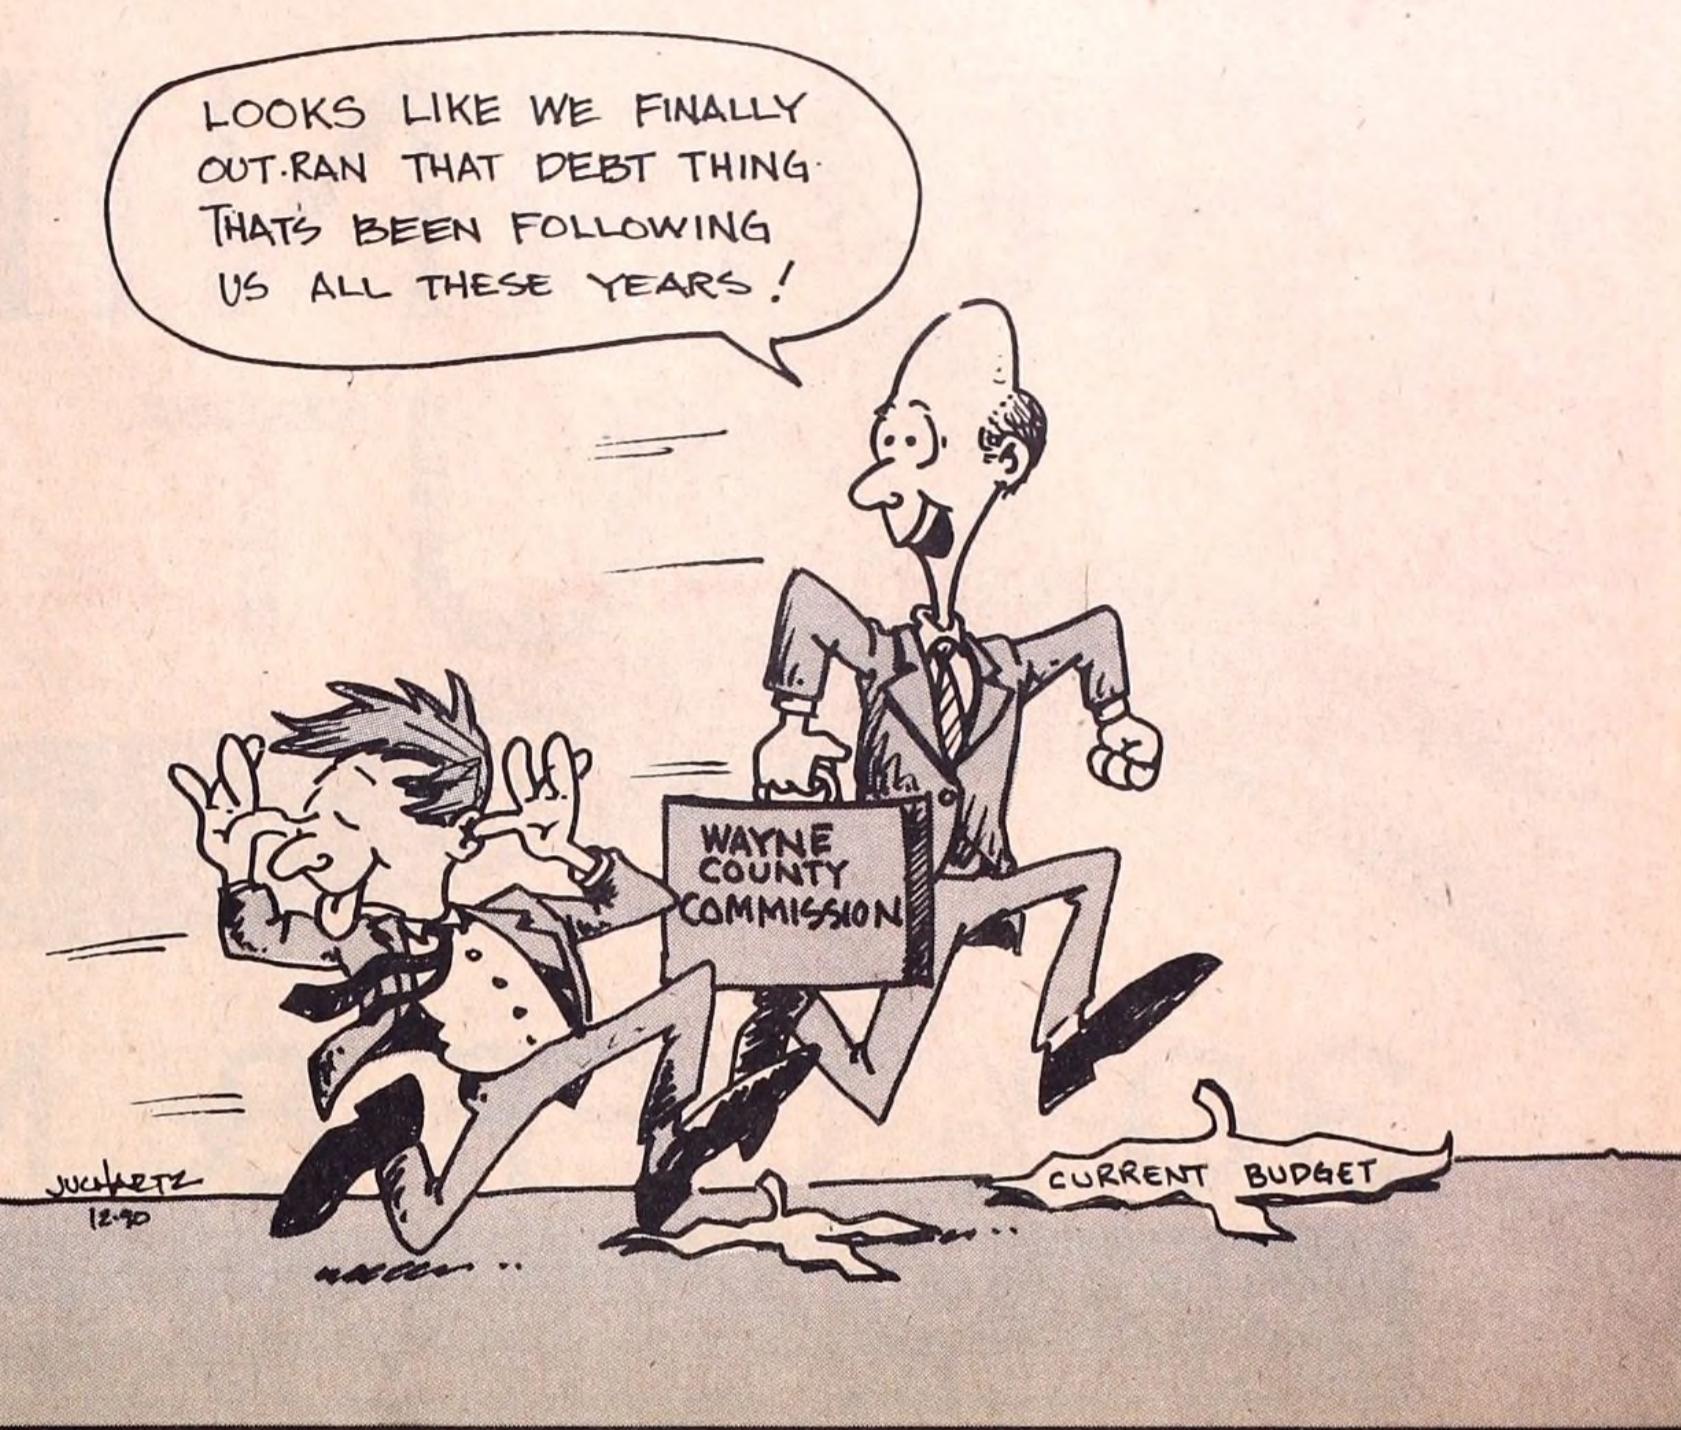

It is time for the county executive to stand up and educate the commissioner using the strong-arm tactics for which is he so often criticized. If the revenue in question is found to be illegal, don't sign the checks - don't sign the commissioners' checks first and foremost.

The residents of western Wayne County will reel from the loss of Commissioner Milton Mack Jr. for a long time - a voice of reason among the crowd, and it appears that true representation of the suburbs will not be regained until citizens are once again given the opportunity to vote for their choice of candidates.

With so many unreasonable voices on the commission chiming in at once, it seems impossible that a "reasonable" candidate will be selected as a temporary substitute for Mack.

Residents' value underestimated

Be aware, fellow tax payers, that a local governmental trend is taking shape that would prove to undermine the very safeguards ensured to us under the Constitution. Again, your City Council and Administration has underplayed the value of resident petitions. It was clearly explained to me at the council meeting of Nov. 26, 1990 that petitions received by the city government from some 22-plus tax paying citizens really did not impact on their decision to rezone 100 acres of prime RIA (single family residence) to RMH (mobile home park) because the petitions did not live in the immediate area.

Joseph Herbert Mars
Inkster

LETTERS

About one year ago, when Wayne County wanted to build a jail in our community, petitions signed by some 300 taxpayers were written off and underplayed to the press as "some 50 signatures which did not constitute a majority." It is the obligation of all our elected officials to listen to our voice whether large or small. Maybe the next time you go to the polls, these same officials, who seem more interested in listening to developers than your petitions, will feel the full force of your majority voice.

Health plan is evil

The techniques and methodologies employed within the Michigan Model program are definitely under scrutiny by concerned parents throughout Michigan. While proponents of the Model deny the use of hypnosis and meditation, certain facts cannot be overlooked. For example, the teacher is warned to "Guide the class through the calm-breathing sequence very slowly to prevent hyperventilation." The step-by-step procedure is identical to those of Jack Canfield, Jean Houston (both avowed New Agers) and also the same step by step procedure detailed in Buckland's Complete Book of Witchcraft.

In a fifth-grade class, children were asked to write of their sexual experiences, giving explicit details.

In a seventh-grade class, after practicing calm breathing techniques, children are asked to take a mini-vacation in their minds. At the end of the session, the child is told "Now, return to the classroom. You've just taken a mini-vacation. How do you feel?" One has to wonder where the children have been if not in some form of altered state of consciousness.

The inherent dangers lying in the Michigan Model program are all too real and should not be overlooked by any concerned parent. Parents are encouraged to review the individual Michigan Model curriculum and bring any of the concerns to their local school board.

Sugar-coating the Michigan Model program does not make it any less dangerous. Sometimes the alleged solution to a problem invariably perpetuates the problem or invents new concerns. Such was the case with sex education. Such is proving to be the case with Michigan Model.

Sue
Willet

Boy, I love to be right. Few things bring such evil joy to my heart as having my position in an argument or on an issue proven correct. I love it. I take fiendish joy in having my greater wisdom and judgment proven to be superior to that of the fools that had the unmitigated gall to ever consider disagreeing with me. "Hah! This will really teach them a lesson," my sanctimonious inner voice cackles.

It has long been my contention that the youth of this country is uneducated and uncultured. They may be degreed and graduated, but frankly, the ones I've been interviewing for jobs can barely write a simple declarative sentence, let alone conceive of a situation which could not be resolved in 60 minutes or less.

I've had this conversation with college professors and teachers publicly and privately. I've listened to their arguments about the reasons our young are not the shining examples of well-read culture we might want. I still contend, however, people today are not as well or as widely educated as in my day when we used a stone tablet and stylus to compose our master's thesis.

Last Saturday afternoon I attended the college graduation ceremony at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant. The crowd of about 10 million very bedraggled and wet audience members was herded into a gymnasium and allowed to witness this rite of passage while seated on bleachers formerly used to torture victims at Dachau. Most everyone in the crowd, however, remained undauntingly cheerful and friendly. Well, there were the ushers who recently graduated from the Leona Helmsley School of Charm and Home Economics, but that really is another story.

So, there we were. We were wet. It was crowded and uncomfortable. And from somewhere in the region of my aching kidneys, the voice began. At first, it appeared that anyone not reared by wolves in the wild would have ignored this dialogue. It should have been a private conversation.

Except that it was loud. Really loud. While there was admittedly a good argument here for my guilt in eavesdropping, it was still very loud. That's my only defense.

It started, apparently, about a job. I was busy attempting to dry parts of my body usually only seen by my physician when it began and was studiously ignoring everyone else, hoping they would provide me with the same courtesy.

"Hey, I know I'm gonna get the job, y'know I been over there an' everything for a interview," was the line that first attracted my attention. "Yeah, I was lookin' around and it don't look like they gotta lot to do, I mean nobody was real busy or nuthin'. I tolle them at the interview that I wasn't workin' no nights or nutin' and that I had da leave by 4:30 every day to pick Dawn up," the voice continued.

"Y'know Dawn's dad was lookin' for some of those binders and stuff and I tolle him when I get this job I could bring him some home. They had this --- everywhere."

"Hey, I got my degree, y'know. I'm free as a bird. I can work anywhere I want, same with Dawn. We been thinkin' of goin' to Florida for awhile," the disembodied voice continued whining. "Hey, we should be able to do what we want when you figure how

GREAT PRETENDERS

Making holiday parties alcohol free

The Great Pretenders.

No, it's not a new singing group. They are refreshments perfect for holiday parties that contain no alcohol.

Each year, the AAA Michigan stages a contest for local residents. Contestants enter recipes for tasty concoctions containing no alcohol.

The winners are recognized with prizes and with special notice in the Great Pretenders party guide.

All of this is done in an effort to cut back on drunken drivers during the holiday season, and all year round. More hosts and hostesses are considering "no-alcohol" parties as a great way to save money, and also save the lives of the loved ones they have invited as guests.

These beverages will allow the host and hostess the freedom to enjoy their party without worrying about guests drinking too much and then getting behind the wheel of a car.

Thousands of highway deaths each year can be traced to alcohol and drunken drivers. AAA Michigan started this program 10 years ago in response to that tragedy.

The Great Pretenders party guide demonstrates that alcohol is not an essential ingredient when it comes to get-togethers.

The ABCs of successful and safe party-throwing include the following:

- Alcohol awareness - Avoid extended cocktail hours and have a knowledgeable person serve measured drinks. Stop serving alcohol as the party wears on.

- Buffet - Serve protein-rich and starchy foods to help lessen the absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream. Keep the buffet well-stocked throughout the party.

- Car pool - Encourage "designated drivers" and make sure they refrain from alcohol during the party. Do not allow an intoxicated guest to drive.

The theme for the AAA Michigan contest this year was "A Holiday South of the Border." Julie K. McEwan of Blissfield was the winner of the 1990 Golden Stirrer Award with her recipe for Tijuana Tinsel-Time Twister. Her recipe and other finalists' recipes follow:

Tijuana Tinsel-Time Twister

1, 10-ounce package frozen, sweetened strawberries (slightly defrosted)
2 cups tropical-mix fruit juice
1 pint whipping cream (unwhipped type)
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 banana (mashed with no chunks)
ice cubes
green food coloring
red, green and white granulated sugar mixed

Moisten rim of wide-mouth (12- to 14-ounce) glasses or goblets with lime juice. Roll wet rim in mixture of red, green and white granulated sugar to coat. Set aside until ready to pour drinks. (Chill in freezer while mixing drinks.)

Whip 4 tablespoons whipping cream until very thick and add several drops of green food coloring. Set aside. Blend remainder with sugar until thick, but pourable and stir in banana. Set aside. In blender, blend strawberries until slushy adding ice cubes, if necessary. Pour into small pitcher. Set aside. In blender, mix fruit juice and add ice cubes (8-12) until slushy.

Layer as follows for each serving: 1/4 cup strawberry mixture in bottom of each glass, 1/4 cup thickened whipped cream and banana mixture, 1/4 cup fruit juice slush poured into center. Repeat layers and top with green whipped cream. Garnish with fruit skewer. Serves 6-8.

Pineapple Punch Fiesta

6 cups citrus soda
6 cups limeade juice
6 cups raspberry drink mix
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup pine-orange-banana juice frozen concentrate
1 1/2 cups pineapple sherbet

In a large punch bowl, stir together juices, drink mix and carbonated beverage. Scoop sherbet into bowl. Garnish with pineapple slices. Serves 24.

Jeff's Jungle Java

hazel nut coffee
1 cup powdered sugar
heavy whipped cream ground cinnamon
sliced almonds
cinnamon sticks
almond milk (see recipe)

Almond milk
1 cup raw almonds
4 cups hot water
dash of salt
cheese cloth

Make almond milk a day ahead. Place one cup of raw almonds and two cups of hot water in bowl. Let stand overnight. Pour nuts and water in the blender with the remaining two cups of hot water and dash of salt. Blend until smooth. Squeeze almond milk through four layers of cheese cloth. Set aside.

Brew a pot of hazel nut coffee. Sift powdered sugar in bowl. Moisten rim of goblet with a damp paper towel and twirl rim in powdered sugar. Fill goblet half full of coffee. Add one heaping teaspoon of powdered sugar. Stir. Add almond milk until goblet is about 2/3 full. Top with whipped cream. Sprinkle ground cinnamon and sliced almonds on top. Add cinnamon stick. Serves 8.

Pachanga Punch

8 ounces guavas nectar
4 ounces pineapple juice
4 ounces orange juice
2 ounces banana nectar
2 ounces mango nectar
lime juice
club soda
maraschino cherries
lime slices
pineapple chunks

Mix nectars and juices and pour over ice cubes in tumblers. Fill glass to top with club soda. Splash with 1 teaspoon fresh lime juice. Garnish with cherry, pineapple chunk and lime slice. Serves 2-3.

Cancun/Caribbean Cream Punch

1 14-ounce can condensed milk (non-evaporated)
1 12-ounce can frozen orange-pineapple-banana juice (thawed)
1 liter bottle club soda

Combine condensed milk with juice concentrate, mix well by shaking in jug. Add club soda and shake. Serve over ice. Serves 8.

Alma's Tomato Mocktail

1 large can tomato juice
1/2 lemon sliced and cut in wedges
2 sticks cinnamon
Pinch whole cloves
1 tablespoon brown sugar
orange slices

Simmer the above, except orange slices, 15 to 20 minutes. Strain and pour into cups or glasses containing orange slice. Season with tobacco if desired. Serves 6-8.

Tequiless Punch

1 6-ounce can frozen lemonade concentrate (mix as directed)
1 cup lime juice (about 10 limes)
1/2 cup sugar
2 cups club soda

Blend and serve with plenty of crushed ice and choice of garnish — salt-rimmed glass or lime wedge. Makes 1.5 quarts.

Thoroughly stir together the flour, salt and baking soda. Place butter in a large mixing bowl and beat until light. Add sugar and egg, and beat until smooth and well blended. Add vanilla and almond extracts and lemon zest and beat a few seconds longer. Beat in about half the dry ingredients. As the much money these degrees cost."

It was at this point in the situation I could stand no more. I had to look at this doctoral candidate for the brain trust who was sure that a college degree provided him with the divine right to make his own rules and dictate all conditions of his employment regardless of the fact that he appeared functionally illiterate and spoke the English language like a featured player from Deliverance.

He was everything I imagined and more although I didn't get too good a look. He was crawling over the crowd to get outside completely unmindful of the bodily injury he was perpetrating upon others as he attempted to join his youthful, pimply and proud companions who awaited his arrival on the gym floor. Obviously, the room was simply too small to contain all that arrogance.

I refuse to believe that these degrees came from Central Michigan University.

Sweet ravioli

2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup unsalted butter, slightly softened
2/3 cup granulated sugar
1 large egg
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1/4 teaspoon almond extract
Finely grated zest of 1 medium-sized lemon
3/4 to 1 cup cherry, raspberry or strawberry preserves

Thoroughly stir together the flour, salt and baking soda. Place butter in a large mixing bowl and beat until light. Add sugar and egg, and beat until smooth and well blended. Add vanilla and almond extracts and lemon zest and beat a few seconds longer. Beat in about half the dry ingredients. As the mixture stiffens, stir in remaining dry ingredients with a wooden spoon until thoroughly incorporated. Divide dough in half and lay each portion between 13-inch-long sheets of waxed paper. Using a rolling pin, roll each half of dough as uniformly as possible into a 12-inch square, about 1/8 inch thick. Check the underside of the dough frequently and smooth out any wrinkles. Very gently peel off top layer of waxed paper and patch and trim dough as necessary to make perfectly square. Replace waxed paper and slide dough squares onto a large tray or baking sheet. Refrigerate for an hour until very cold and firm.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease several baking sheets and set aside. Remove one dough square from the refrigerator. Peel off top sheet of waxed paper and then replace loosely. Carefully turn square over so underside is facing up and peel off and discard bottom sheet of waxed paper. Measure and mark dough vertically and horizontally at 1 1/2-inch intervals. Using a pastry wheel or large knife, cut the dough as marked into 64 squares, trying not to cut through waxed paper underneath. While the squares are still cold and firm, transfer them to baking sheets, using a spatula, and space about 1 1/4 inches apart. Place 1/2 teaspoon preserves in the center of each square.

Remove the second dough square from the refrigerator. Cut into squares as first sheet of dough, to again make 64 1 1/2-inch squares. Using a fork, prick an X in the center of each square. While squares are still cold and firm, transfer them to baking sheets, carefully centering each one over a jelly-topped square. Do not press down or try to crimp the edges of the two dough squares together at this point. Let the cookies stand for 4 or 5 minutes, or until squares on top begin to warm up and soften. Then, using the tines of a fork, press down around the edges of upper square to tightly seal the two layers.

Tourney time

For some local teams, there will be no rest for Christmas holidays

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

For some local high school basketball teams, there will be no rest for the holidays.

Belleville, Romulus and New Boston Huron will be involved in holiday tournaments next week.

Fans should be treated to one of the best games of the year when undefeated Belleville clashes with state-ranked Ann Arbor Huron at the Willow Run holiday classic.

"Both teams are undefeated, but Huron should have a slight edge because they are state ranked," said Chuck Cook, athletic director at Willow Run High School. "We expect an excellent turnout over here."

Coach Michael Garland and the Belleville Tigers, coming off an impressive victory over Lincoln Park, will take on the Huron River Rats in the first of two games scheduled Dec. 27.

Belleville will meet Ann Arbor Huron at 6 p.m.

In the nightcap at 8 p.m., the host will play Detroit Henry Ford.

The two losers are slated to play at 6 p.m. in a consolation game scheduled Dec. 28.

— Charles Cook
Willow Run athletic director

The championship at Willow Run will be decided at 8 p.m. on Friday.

In the meantime, Romulus is readying to host its second annual holiday tournament. The Eagles have invited Taylor Kennedy and Lincoln Park to the four-team tournament.

Undefeated in its first two outings and also posting an impressive 97-82 victory over Ann Arbor Pioneer Friday, Coach Chris Molloy and the Eagles have been inked as the pre-tournament title favorites.

They have one of the outstanding players in the area in Torrey Mills, a 6-1 senior forward who has averaged 30 points in his first two outings.

The first round at Romulus will be staged at 5 p.m. Dec. 26 when an improved New Boston Huron team takes on Taylor Kennedy.

Romulus will begin to shoot for its second straight tournament title at 7 p.m. when the Eagles meet the Lincoln Park Railsplitters.

The championship will be decided at 7 p.m. and a consolation game will be played at 5 p.m. Dec. 27.

Tickets for all games are priced at $3.

Tigers plaster Parkers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Lincoln Park tried to play cat-and-mouse against a taller and physically stronger Belleville basketball team.

The strategy might have worked if it wasn't for Ron Hunter.

Playing deliberate basketball, Lincoln Park made Belleville play chase all over the court before handing over a 66-53 conference decision to Coach Michael Garland's cagers.

It was the third straight victory for Belleville, the second in the conference.

Belleville was scheduled to host Westland John Glenn last night, a team that has had its share of problems in the early going.

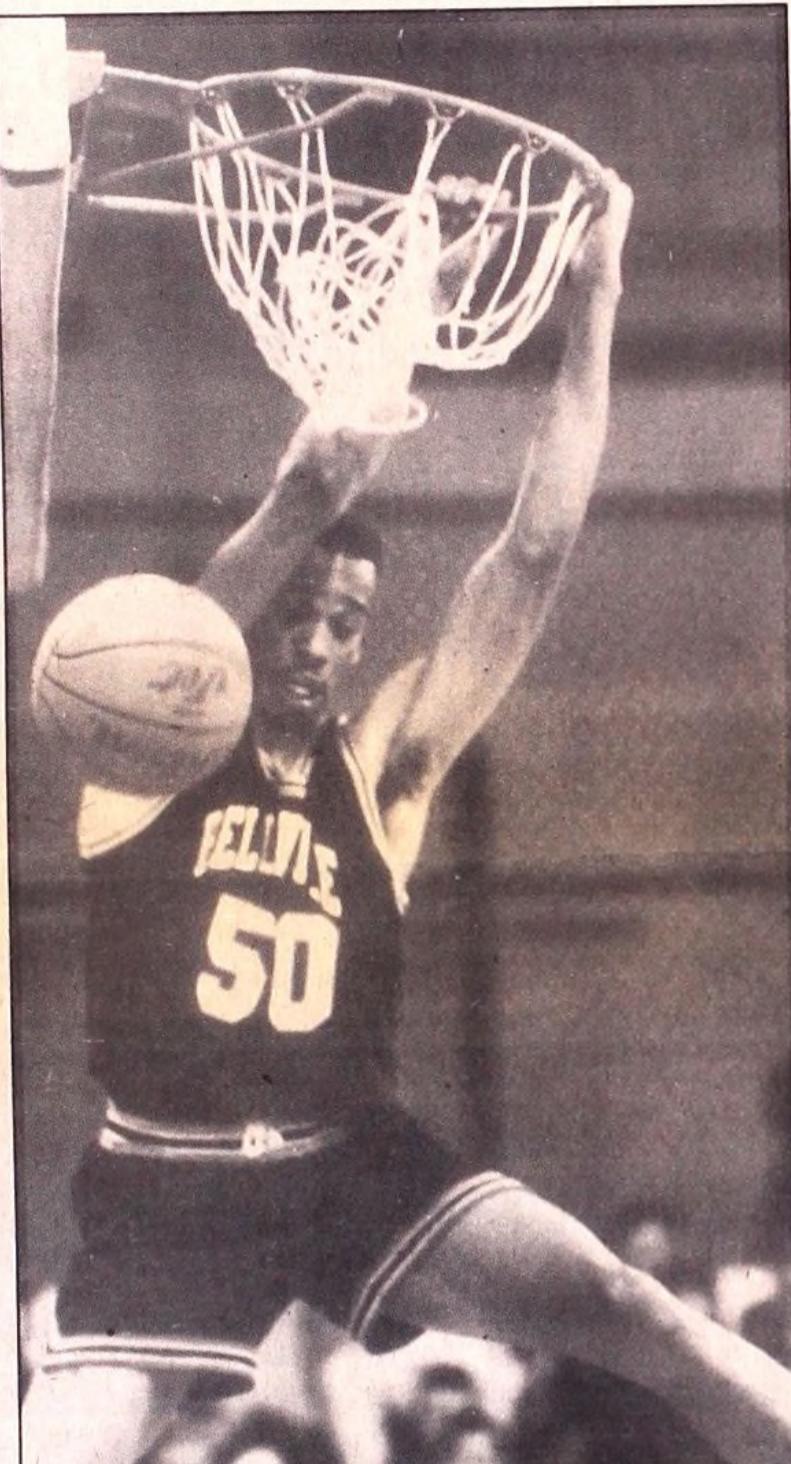

On Friday, Belleville will meet traditional powerhouse Dearborn Fordson in Dearborn. A victory over the Tractors would leave them on top of the conference.

Hunter, a multi-talented athlete, led a sometimes too anxious Tiger club back from an 18-17 halftime deficit. Hunter scored more than that for the evening, after he injected some spirit into his teammates. The 6-5, 210-pound senior guard was the trigger man for a 30-point third period that erased the Belleville deficit and provided his team with a 47-35 lead after three periods.

Hunter finished with a game-high 22 points and 15 rebounds, while teammate Derrick Boles scored 16 points.

Bryan Stadhl led the losers with 15 points.

Belleville outscored its rivals 25-21 from the field and canned 15 of 26 from the free throw line, compared with seven of 12 for the Railsplitters.

Belleville junior Tyrone Hicks (above) makes his point as he slams home a basket. The 6-7, 200-pound center has helped the Tigers get off to a 2-0 start. The road now gets rough for Belleville this week as the Wolverine 'A' Conference title hopeful has a crucial test tonight when Coach Michael Garland and his Tigers travel to Dearborn Fordson for a rare Thursday night game. Romulus spikers have the right stuff

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Despite early-season injuries, the Romulus volleyball team "will be competitive," according to Coach Gail Coleman.

"Our defense will be tough and when we get all of our players back from their injuries, I feel we will be a very competitive team," Coleman said.

The Eagles launched the 1990-91 campaign last week with a meet against New Boston Huron and Riverview Gabriel Richard. The Eagles turned back Huron 15-10 and 15-8, but dropped the decision to Richard 15-13 and 15-8.

Midway in the opening set against Richard, Romulus lost veteran front-line hitter Charlene Smith to an injury. Up 9-1 at the time, the Eagles apparently lost their momentum and the first set.

"We didn't look the same after Smith came out," Coleman said. "We seemed to cave in."

Smith joins two other seasoned players on the sidelines. The Eagles also have Angie Slawski and Heidi Bassard on the injury list.

Coleman has four starters and eight in all returnees from the team last year which posted a 30-13 record.

Among the returnees are All-area candidates Jennifer Daniel, Michelle Scarrow, Brooke Hammers and Tammy Trubilowicz. Also returning to the Romulus lineup are Sue Molenda, Slawski, Smith and Jennifer McClure.

"Defense has been our forte," Coleman explained. "That is one of the reasons why we will do all right once we get the players back from their injuries."

Romulus will travel to neighboring Taylor on Saturday to compete for the Taylor Invitational title.

Rusty Robichaud rolls in league cage opener

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Although a bit rusty in spots, Robichaud managed to roll past Willow Run 68-54 in the Suburban Athletic Conference basketball opener for both teams.

The victory evened the Bulldogs' record at 1-1, after Coach Ron Tarrant's cagers dropped their non-conference opener to Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Tarrant had some concerns his team would not be ready because 12 of his 14 players were involved in football. Robichaud won the Class B state title and the extended season left the basketball coach up in the air about when he would have his lineup intact.

"It was a 500 percent improvement over our first game," Tarrant said. "We are going to improve as the season progresses. But, understandably, we are rusty because most of these kids haven't had the opportunity to practice very much."

Robichaud shot 44 percent from the field and never trailed, although the outcome of the game remained in doubt until midway in the fourth when a pair of baskets from Ernie Baskin and Robert McClain salted the decision away.

Up by 35-25 at the halfway mark, the Bulldogs forced the smaller but quicker Willow Run team to shoot from outside. The Flyers failed to penetrate inside the stronger Bulldog defense.

"We knew we had them on the boards, so we

We were 500 percent better than we were in the opener. We're still rusty, however.

— Ron Tarrant
Robichaud cage coach

forced them to take shots from outside our zone," Tarrant said. "Their shots were not falling."

Baskin, an all-state football player, came up with 12 rebounds to go along with 11 points. He was one of three Robichaud players to reach double-figure marks in scoring. Teammate Robert McClain led the field with a game-high 15 points, while Greg Murphy added 10.

The Flyers received 10 points from Tyus Mackon, the team's high scorer.

Tarrant was not satisfied at the way his team looked at the free throw line where the Bulldogs missed 12 of their 22 opportunities. He said the team will have to do better.

The Bulldogs were scheduled to play two out-of-conference games starting on Tuesday against Woodhaven and on Friday at home against Garden City.

"Woodhaven has been pretty decent in recent years," Tarrant said. "However, we don't know much about Garden City."

Wyandotte whips St. Anthony

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Undefeated Wyandotte Catholic showed Saint Anthony-Belleville why they are considered the best basketball team in the Catholic Youth Association this season.

The Raiders belted Belleville 39-13 to hand the Warriors their first CYO setback of the season.

Forwards Jason Barnes and Ken Cameron combined for 21 points to pace the downriver powerhouse. Wyandotte is now 5-0 on the year.

Barnes had 12 points, while Cameron chipped in 10.

Wyandotte used its size to dominate the boards for a 25-10 halftime lead. For the game, the Raiders shot 37 percent from the field and outrebounded their rivals 33-23.

Tate Travis led St. Anthony's with seven points, as the Warriors' record dipped to 1-1 on the year.

St. Anthony rebounded the following game thanks to guard Tate Travis, who scored a career-high 15 points and added seven rebounds to lead Belleville to a 25-18 victory over St. Aloysius.

The victory lifted the Warriors to a 2-1 record, while Aloysius is 0-3 on the year.

The Warriors' trapping defense led to 11 first-half steals that helped build a 18-14 halftime lead. St. Anthony scored 18 points off 22 steals for the game.

Belleville wins Ypsilanti title

Melissa Smiley

Smiley helps Ferris win cage tourney

Following her father's footsteps, Melissa Smiley tossed in 15 points to lead the Ferris State Bulldogs to a 76-62 victory over Lake Superior State in the Red Division finals of the Grand Rapids Press holiday tournament.

For her heroes, Smiley was voted the Most Valuable Player of the tournament.

Melissa's father, Fred Smiley, was an All-American basketball player at Northwood Institute during the mid-1970s.

"Defense has been our forte," Coleman explained. "That is one of the reasons why we will do all right once we get the players back from their injuries."

Romulus will travel to neighboring Taylor on Saturday to compete for the Taylor Invitational title.

Belleville wrestlers parlayed three gold medals and three silver medals into their first invitational victory of the 1990-91 campaign.

The Belleville coaching staff and Tigers walked off the mats Saturday with the prestigious Ypsilanti Invitational Championship.

Belleville heavyweight Jim Howe continued his unbeaten streak as he captured a first place by pinning Rich Bertrand of Saline in 52 seconds of the championship round. Howe is 11-0 on the year.

Stephen Davis, a 130-pounder, gave the Tigers a first when he disposed of Joe Bearss of Ogemaw Heights in 3:08. Davis also remains unbeaten this year.

Belleville received a sterling performance from its 171-pounder, Mike Komaromi, who defeated George Doudre, also of Ogemaw Heights, in 3:02 for the gold.

Three Belleville grapplers came up one victory shy of winning a gold. Jay Ballesteros (103), Josh Monte (112) and John Ratcliff (125) lost their matches in the finals.

Ballesteros was pinned by Marc Gray of Saline in 2:30. Monte also had problems with Matt Allison of Northville, who claimed a 1:17 fall. Another Northville wrestler, Kevin Khashan, came up a winner when he pinned Ratcliff in 1:56.

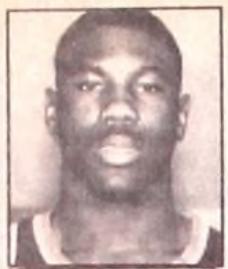

Belleville wrestlers collected three bronze medals thanks to the efforts of Marty Sacco (160), Mike Champagne (119) and Todd Hendrix (135). The Tigers finished fourth with Jim Johnson (140) and Sean Zaborowski (152).

Malecek was not able to attend the tournament. He was busy guiding the Belleville 'B' squad at a junior tournament. He assigned the coaching duties for the varsity club to three former All-area wrestlers—John Ritchey, Mike Beckley and Derek Reed.

On Saturday, Belleville travels to Plymouth Salem to compete in a double dual meet.

Tribute

The Westwood Board of Education, school officials and Inkster officials will meet at 7:30 tonight in the board offices, 25912 Annapolis, to pay tribute to the Robichaud High School football team. The team captured the Class B state championship last month. One of the reasons for the state title was the outstanding performance of senior tailback/quaterback Tyrone Wheatley (above) who led the Bulldogs to a 12-1 overall record and their first state title. Travis started off slow, hitting two of his first seven shots before exploding for 10 points.

"Our defense is predicated on a good transition game and a half-court offense, emphasizing a driving guard to pull the defense and then kicking the ball to an off-wing for a shot from the foul line," Coach Chuck Dyke said. "They covered the pass to the top of the key and gave us the middle. Tate just took it to the hole."

The Saint Aloysius Sabers were led by center Julius Marcus, who scored eight points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Guard Grant Gutkowski added six points.

St. Anthony is off until Jan. 6, when it will host Wyandotte Our Lady of Mount Carmel. The game is scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

Meet The Faces Behind Most Medical Advances.

There are a lot of doctors and researchers out there who deserve credit for society's medical achievements. But the fact is, they'll have to share the credit. Because before any medical project can break new ground, it has to get off the ground. And that takes money. We urge you to contribute to the hospital of your choice. Your help could mean a solution to many of today's most pressing medical concerns. The first of which is, quite frankly, funding.

Give To Your Local Hospital. Give To Life.

THE FIRST PART OF THE BODY THAT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY AFFECTS.

It's hard to smile when you lose the ability to walk. To play. To draw pictures. To climb a tree. But that's what happens when a child has muscular dystrophy.

"Muscular dystrophy" is the name for a group of diseases that weaken and destroy the muscles. The disorders are progressive, so things get worse over time. The muscle loss can't be stopped. And it can't be reversed.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association is striving to cure muscular dystrophy. And on Christmas Eve of 1987, MDA researchers announced a landmark advance: discovery of the cause of the most terrible form of muscular dystrophy, Duchenne.

Now a giant step toward curing these dread diseases has been taken. And MDA researchers are forging ahead, racing to save the children stricken today.

MDA receives no government grants or fees for services — its work is funded entirely by private donations. You can help MDA fight muscular dystrophy and dozens of other muscle diseases by sending a tax-deductible contribution today.

Don't wait until a child's smile reminds you of all the children who have stopped smiling. Please send your donation today.

This page is a collage of various Christmas-related advertisements and illustrations. At the top left, there's an ad for "Christmas Joy" with a candle and holly. Next to it is an illustration of a bell and a small figure. Below that is an ad for "Mac's Pet Supply" with a drawing of a dog and cat. To the right is an ad for "Fancy Nails Plus" with a drawing of a hand with a bow. In the center, there's an ad for "BURGER KING" with a small illustration of a person. On the far left, there's an ad for "BURHOP'S COLLISION" with a drawing of a car. In the middle left, there's an ad for "Comfort Inn" with a drawing of a dove. To the right of the dove is an ad for "B & R TELEVISION" with a drawing of a man in a top hat. The central part of the page features a large, stylized cartoon of Santa Claus holding a string that extends to a child's hand. Several children's handwritten letters to Santa are pinned to the background. One letter from "Jeff. Newson" asks for a Batman mobile, a green chair, a snowman, crayons, and a Batman coloring book. Another letter from "Stephanie Kins" (3½ yrs old) asks about Santa's house and teeth. To the right, there's an ad for "VILLAGE BAR" with a drawing of a bow and ribbon. Below that is an ad for "WAYNE CAB" with a drawing of a car. Further down, there's an ad for "TUB & TUMBLERS" with a drawing of a church. To the right of that is an ad for "LENTS FUNERAL HOME" with a drawing of wrapped gifts. At the bottom left, there's an ad for "BELLE WOODS CONTINUING CARE CENTER" with a drawing of a hot air balloon. To the right of that is an ad for "THE VCR CLINIC" with a drawing of three Santas. The bottom right corner features a large, stylized drawing of Santa Claus with the text "The Yuletide is Here!" and "Santa stops for a minute to wish you a beautiful, bountiful Christmas!". Other smaller ads include "Fancy Nails Plus", "BURGER KING", "B & R TELEVISION", "VILLAGE BAR", "WAYNE CAB", "TUB & TUMBLERS", "LENTS FUNERAL HOME", "BELLE WOODS CONTINUING CARE CENTER", "THE VCR CLINIC", "Dos Pesos Mexican Restaurant", "RED LION PUB", "HENRY R. DEERING INSURANCE AGENCY", "GARDEN FANTASY", "Chesley Odom Design Associates", and "Keggers Food Store". The letters to Santa are written in a childlike, cursive script.

I would like a Go-Go ring, a vanity my make-up (so I can my mommy) and some books. I would also the kids who are don't have a winter coat to have one, people who sleep on the beach to be able to have home. I have been pretty nice. I gave my to my church for to keep warm. I'll bake you cookies & be Rudolph a Carrot. Hurry Santa, Be Careful! Jessica Berner Westland.

this is a slap bracelet. Now I'm able. Is it too big? I want a remote control truck like my dad's. All I want for Christmas is teeth. No, I'm just singing, a toy wreath, your elves. A nice, nice shirt with pants. A shirt like you wear. I want cowboy boots. I want however nice work pencil. I have a baby, maybe you can talk to me. Tony Salazar Age 5 Bellevue

ORDER TO ANSWER PUBLICATION

AT A SESSION of said Court held in the City of Wayne, Wayne County, Michigan, on November 17, 1990.
PRESENT: HONORABLE CAROLYN ARCHBOLD, DISTRICT JUDGE

It appearing to this Court that an action was filed on September 20, 1990 to forfeit a land contract and that Plaintiff has been unable to serve the said Defendants with a copy thereof by certified mail regularly at a Post Office box maintained by them in the City of Farmington, and

It appearing further from the affidavit and Motion of the Plaintiff herein, that the actual residence of the Defendants is unknown, but that the said Defendants obtain mail regularly at a Post Office box maintained by them in the City of Farmington, and

NOW THEREFORE IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the Defendants can be best apprised of the pendency of this action by publication of an order in a newspaper and the sending of a copy thereof to the said Defendants at their address with the District Court in a newspaper generally circulated in said county once each week for three (3) consecutive weeks.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the first publication of this Order be made within seven (7) days from the date of entry of this Order and that prior to the date of the last publication of this Order, a copy of this Order be placed in a properly sealed envelope with postage prepaid bearing the return address of Plaintiff's attorney, the same deposited in the United States Mail addressed to the Defendants at P.O

Sports car makers face new demands of safety

By PATRICIA BROWN
ANP Staff Writer

Some sports cars today can easily double the national speed limit of 65 mph. But auto-makers are being forced to look at demands for a safer environment, safer vehicles and safer highways.

Even though restrictions are tightening, sports cars aren't quite nearing extinction, according to a report from the North American International Auto Show.

Auto show officials asked industry leaders if they believed sports cars will one day become extinct.

Other concerns included: measuring performance at the gas pumps, which could lead to the elimination of the 65 mph speed limit; reduced space for open roads; higher gas-guzzler and luxury taxes put an end to performance cars; the future of the large V-8 engines.

Back in the 1960s, performance cars were labeled such if they had a lot of horsepower and were able to excel to a certain speed on a straight-a-way, according to Ralph Kramer, director of public relations for Chevrolet.

The cars weren't built to take curves or to handle well. Performance cars today are equipped with better handling packages. A contributing factor to the poorer handling in the 60s is the weight of the cars.

"They were roughly 4,000 pounds and produced anywhere between 325-400 'advertised' horsepower," said Paul Preuss in a written press release. Preuss is public affairs manager at Ford Motor Co.

"These gas guzzlers used a lot of gas," he said. "They only went about 6 to 9 miles on a gallon."

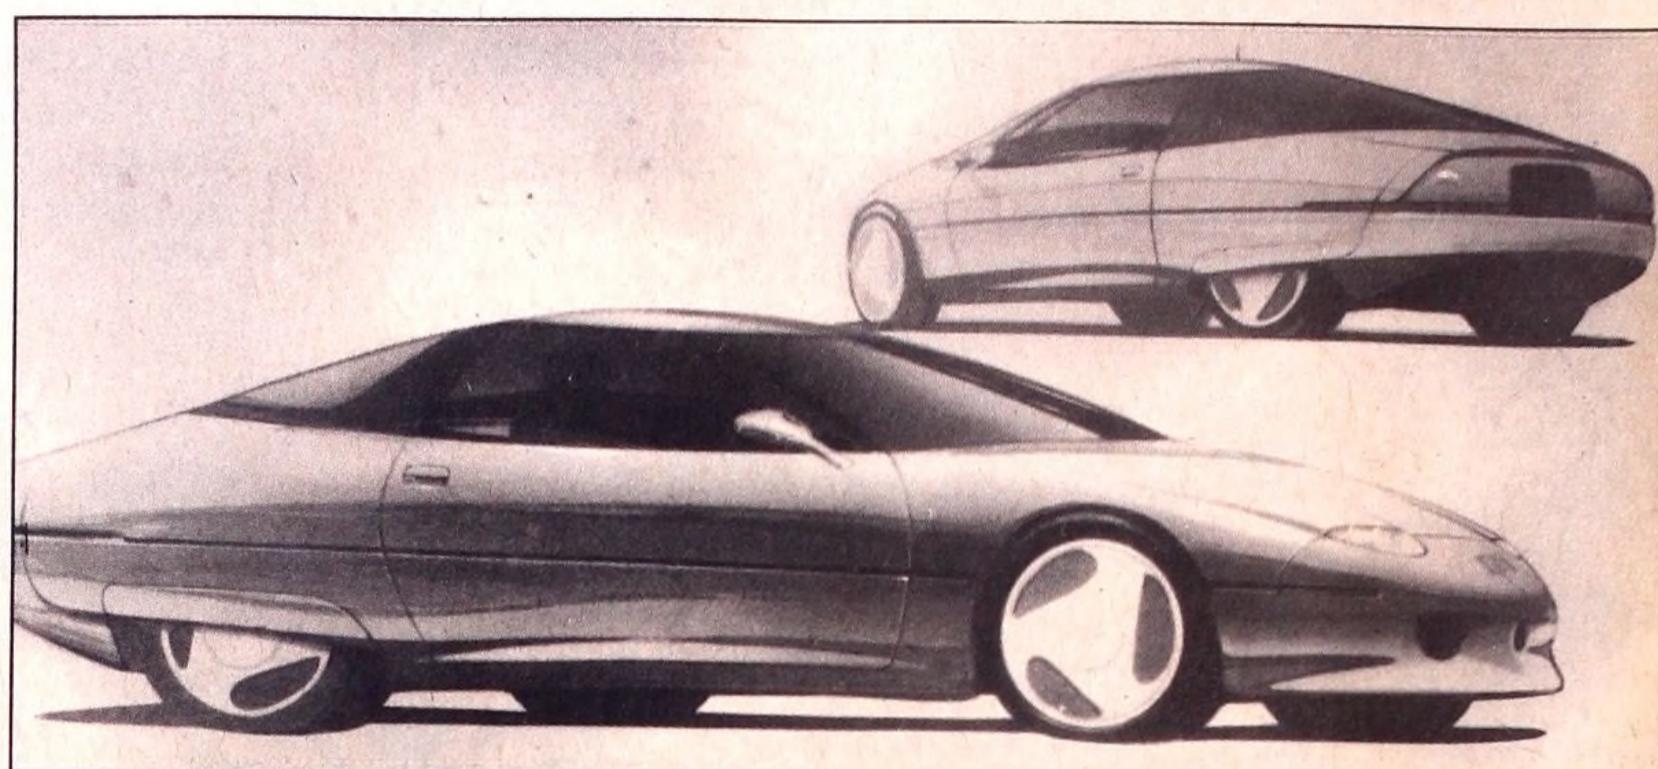

The cars might have been fast, but they weren't built to race on anything other than the open road, he said.

"The combination of weight and horsepower, coupled with unsophisticated braking and suspension systems, produced boulevard beasts that were extremely quick, but not very tame," Auto Show spokesman Jim Dinsmore said in the same press release.

It was the foreign manufacturers who built performance cars capable of running at high speeds on a curved course, according to Matt DeLorenzo, editor of Autoweek Magazine.

DeLorenzo was also quoted in the report.

"The Europeans were much more sophisticated in their approach to performance in that they incorporated technologies like multi-valve dual overhead cam V-12 engines that were, at the time, quite advanced," DeLorenzo said.

Sports cars may be a thing of the past if federal regulators get their way. Concept cars will probably never make it past the drawing board if they aren't fuel efficient, leading auto experts say. ANP special photo.

Today, fast cars are more fuel efficient and offer such features as all-wheel-drive and computerized engine management, according to Dinsmore.

It was in the 1970s that auto-makers concentrated on producing more fuel-efficient cars. Most of the muscle cars built in the United States were eliminated until the 1980s when gas prices stabilized.

"Driving qualities that combined a proper balance of handling, braking and top speed were better techniques in finding a car's best overall performance package," said Rob Mitchell, product information manager for BMW. Mitchell was also quoted in the report.

Skyrocketing insurance costs also helped to eliminate the muscle cars.

"Since the insurance companies almost singlehandedly put an end to the muscle car, people found satisfaction in better handling and breaking cars. You could sense a 'European influence' in the way new cars' suspensions were set up and less emphasis was placed on the crude horsepower," Preuss said.

Many of the top-rated sports cars built by manufacturers all over the world will be on display at the North American International Auto Show, which opens to the public Jan. 12 and runs through Jan. 20 at Cobo Center in downtown Detroit.
